

TITLE: The New Iron Triangle – Politics, Finance and Community

AUTHOR(S): Yvonne Butler

NAME OF COMPANY: Australian Institute of Project Management

ABSTRACT:

This presentation will address the critical contribution of project controls to all aspects of an organisation's value equation. We can either create new value or protect existing value by ensuring the appropriate controls are in place at project, program and portfolio levels. In light of the current infrastructure boom in Australia, the presentation will also address the balancing act between political, financial and community drivers and the necessity for improved reporting and greater transparency through effective project controls.
